EXPECTATIONS OF STUDENTS: In order to get their money’s worth and have fun with this class, students should want to work hard and think hard. Thus I assume all students will always attend class and complete all reading and paper assignments on time. Since this course transfers as 4 semester hours, students should expect to spend at least 180 hours on this class over the course of the semester, including the time when the class actually meets. Students must contact the professor BEFORE the due date concerning any late papers or problems with exams. Late work will be penalized 5 points per day. Make-up exams will be given only under extraordinary circumstances. Research papers and weekly questions must be handed in in hard copy; emailed papers are not accepted. No electronics in class without permission, please.

Leave a voicemail if you can’t reach me in person or try me via email during regular business hours.

Level of Course: This senior seminar fulfills the Political Science Department requirements for a capstone seminar in American politics. The course also fulfills the capstone requirement for the Law and Society Concentration. The course assumes information from a wide variety of American government and/or Law and Society courses.
Discussion Questions: Discussion Questions on each week’s reading are due in my office no later than 10:00 am each Monday.

Oral Presentations: For each book discussed in class, one student will be in charge of a 10 minute introduction to the book. The introduction should cover such things as the research question of the book, the main findings of the book, brief comments about the author’s methodology, and a very brief statement of the disciplinary background of the author(s). Check list for presentations is attached. There will be a sign-up sheet in the first class.
