The Leah and Samuel Levenson Papers

Samuel Levenson was a Worcester native who received his A.B from Clark University in 1930 and his A.M. in 1936. He was a journalist and both he and his wife, Leah, were authors of biographies. Samuel died in 1977 and Leah in 2000 and Leah left their papers and library without restriction to Clark University in her will. Appropriate books were incorporated into the Goddard Library circulating collection.

The books written by the Levensons were:

Levenson, Sam. James Connolly: a biography. London: Martin Brian and O'Keeffe, 1973.

Levenson, Sam. Maud Gonne. New York: Reader's Digest Press, 1976.

Levenson, Leah. With wooden sword: a portrait of Francis Sheehy-Skeffington, militant pacifist. Boston: Northeastern University Press, 1983.

Levenson, Leah. Hanna Sheehy-Skeffington, Irish feminist. Syracuse, N.Y.: Syracuse University Press, 1986.

Levenson, Leah. Granville Hicks: the intellectual in mass society. Philadelphia: Temple University Press, 1993.

Levenson, Leah. The four seasons of Mary Lavin. Dublin: Marino Books, 1998.

The papers comprise one and a half linear feet. They include transcriptions and tapes of interviews made in the course of the Levensons' researches, photographs of the biographees, authorizations and permissions forms, contracts, and journals written by Granville Hicks. Leah was working on a biography of Abbie Hoffman at the time of her death and the papers include notes, tapes and a rough draft. There are also many letters written by Samuel to Leah while he was in the army during World War II, some of which are transcribed. The order of the Levensons' papers has been kept as much as possible, as the Levensons' files were apparently arranged alphabetically according to the book.
